

A moniker is provided that accesses already-running instances of objects that do not have a resistant state. In one aspect, the objects are associated with a programmable logic controller (PLC). The PLC may be a soft PLC that interfaces with a personal computer. A remote connection is provided for such that the moniker instantiates objects of PLCs remotely such as over the internet.

10.

15